2017 NEC® Electrical Calculations

Just Follow the Steps ...

C&M Enterprises will be providing training on Box, Raceway & Voltage Drop under the 2017 NEC

Box, Raceway, & Voltage Drop Under the 2017 NEC

This in-depth code based six-hour instruction into box fill, conduit fill, wireway/gutter sizing, and voltage drop calculations will expose the attendee to the NEC® requirements governing compliant fill & sizing calculations. This training is designed to go beyond the basics and provides insight into all the requirements and familiarity with the necessary tables and Code sections governing fill, sizing, and compliance. While NEC® codebooks may be helpful, this course is designed to provide all the necessary information to explain, comprehend and complete the calculations without additional materials. The coursework contains additional calculation procedures commonly encountered in the electrical construction industry, provides complete detailed description of the various calculations, and has proven to be valuable reference for future calculations and competency testing. This course is especially suited for master and journeyman electricians, design professionals, enforcement personnel, and others with a need-to-know regarding various calculation processes necessary for NEC® compliance.

This course qualifies for 6 Code based hours of continuing education for Kansas electricians. See: CandMenterprises.net
